Dear Mr Almond,

I have today written to one of your employees, Sam Lambert, to congratulate him on his success in the recent Architectural Technology Awards.

His story was inspiring and I was particularly encouraged to read how he had started his career through an apprenticeship with your firm and had done so well.

I am a huge fan of apprenticeships and Sam is a tremendous example of a young person achieving academic success and highly skilled vocational training with a business at the same time.

Whilst Sam rightly received the plaudits at the recent awards, I would like to thank P+HS Architects for giving this determined young man the opportunity to learn and grow with your business.

Can I also take this opportunity to congratulate the firm on its success last month in being named Architectural Practice of the Year for the third time in the healthcare sector. Very well done!

Kind regards,
